The trouble is, non-Christians are not a part of that universe, so how can they come to grips with the Savior and His followers if we speak like that? Since we ourselves don't use these church terms outside of a churchly context, how can we even know what we're really saying? Do we really know the meaning?

Posted on March 27, 2013 by Dr. Steven R. Cook. Do not love the world [Grk. kosmos] nor the things in the world. If anyone loves the world, the love of the Father is not in him. For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh and the lust of the eyes and the boastful pride of life, is not from the Father, but is from the world. (1 John 2:15-16) When John writes and tells the Christian “do not love the world”, he’s not talking about the physical planet.
